Heritage Hills Bank Donates to Rebuild Fire Station Destroyed by Tornado

Nortonville, IN — In a news conference at their main office this morning, Heritage Hills Bank announced a $10,000 donation toward the rebuilding of the Smith Township Fire Station destroyed in the August 15, 2006, tornado.

Heritage Hills Bank President, David Erickson, presented a check to Volunteer Fire Captain, Chris Bradley, at the future site of the new station. According to Erickson, “So many of our residents were negatively impacted by the tornado. Our board and management felt this donation would enable us to benefit a large group of people in the affected area.”

“Our firefighters heroically responded to a community in distress after the tornado disaster,” he added. “This was also a way to show our appreciation for their efforts.”

Upon accepting the donation, Bradley advised a building fund has been established for the new fire station. Applications for grants have also been submitted.

Smith Township firefighters are temporarily working out of the Owen Township Fire Station. The new station’s projected completion date is March of 2007.

Heritage Hills Bank has been serving the Nortonville area since 1917. The locally owned bank operates six offices in Nortonville, Greenburg and New Castle.
